"I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth," said the girl. "Well," replied the young man who takes everything seriously, "if I was the last man on earth I'd be mourning so many friends and relatives that I don't suppose I'd feel much like taking part in a wedding anyhow."—Washington Star.

AVOID THE RUTS.

The most beaten and frequented tracks are those which lead us most astray. Nothing, therefore, is more important than that we should not, like sheep, follow the flock that has gone before us and thus proceed not whether we ought, but whether the rest are going.—Seneca.

TIED CAN TO DOG'S
TAIL AND PAID $5
FINE TO JUSTICE

It cost Charles Morris five perfectly good dollars to see a dog make a run for Gold Hill with a can Thursday evening. The canine, with a last season's tomato can wired to its caudal appendage, had right of way through the streets as it made a run to get away from the clatter in the rear, and as Engineer W. W. Harmon has a warm spot in his heart for the brute creation he at once made complaint of the infraction of the statute prohibiting cruelty to animals. Morris came into court when a warrant of arrest had been issued and acknowledged being author of the job put up on the dog. He liquidated when the judge told it would cost him the $5 to appease the wrath of justice, but unfortunately there is no one to apply amica to the dog's wounded feelings.

AGED MAN GETS PATENT TO LONG-CONTESTED LAND

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—After seven years of watching for the letter that never came, Robert Philbrick, ill and worn with a life battle of over 80 years, will get good news from Uncle Sam tonight or tomorrow in his little mountain cabin 12 miles beyond Arroyo Grande, San Luis Obispo county.

For Secretary of the Interior Lane has heard his plea that the tiny ranch be left him in his declining years, instead of being taken away, as it was to be under rulings of land courts. And Lane's heart was touched by the old man's long brave fight to keep the ranch, so today a letter was headed for the mountains, informing Philbrick that he can live—and die—in peace, knowing that the government's patent is behind him in possession of the place.

Suspense.

"There isn't any suspense about your play," said the technical critic.

"That shows how you jump at conclusions," replied the author. "You just ought to see me waiting for royal ties."—Exchange.

Made the Enemy Furnish Bullets.
When the British were endeavoring to subdue the Maoris they were long the victims of a ruse that enabled the natives to replenish their stock of bullets at the expense of their enemies. The Maoris would build a dummy and expose it from behind a tree near the British lines. Immediately the British would blaze away at it. Behind the dummy the Maoris would have constructed an earth bank and from this they would later dig their supply of bullets to send back to the British.—American Boy.

MRS. GAY IN LOS ANGELES HANGED

Folsom Prison, Cal., Oct. 8.—Burr Harris, a negro, was hanged here this forenoon. So little interest was taken in the execution that the warden had difficulty in assembling the required number of 14 witnesses.

Harris was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Rebecca P. Gay, a Christian Science practitioner, in Los Angeles. He confessed to having killed a woman previous to the murder of Mrs. Gay, for which he was never tried.

Harris was subject to queer fits and the governor hesitated some time before allowing him to be hanged.

He was pronounced dead 15 minutes after the drop fell. He swayed a little just before the signal was given, but was steadied by the warden.

EMPEROR OF BRITAIN
DAMAGED BY FIRE

Liverpool, Oct. 8.—The Empress of Britain, former Canadian Pacific liner, commandeered by the government at the start of the war, was towed into port today, heavily damaged by a fire of unknown origin which broke out as she was leaving the Mersey last night. She carried no cargo.

In view of the absence of cargo, it is assumed that the vessel probably was carrying troops when she took fire.
